INTRODUCTON

It is rare in the wine industry for like this to come along. Most of the great wine collections have been sold, pulled apart and the thoughts of the individuals that drew together through friendships, places and personal feelings last forever. And yet here, buried deep in the rock that Curtain Bluff was built upon. I was delighted to quite the most extraordinary collection from the greatest Chateaux, Domaines and Estates the wine world has produced. Selected decades ago, before market price was a simple indicator of quality, this cellar was collated through true instinct and understanding of the vineyard sites and inspirational human beings.

Over the last few months we have attempted to prevent this collection of wines in a manner that tells not only the story of the wines, but also of the man that pulled them together, That man Sir Howard Hulford. This is his wine cellar.
